

Welcome back to Day 10 of our 21 Days English challenge

This video is perfect for B2–C1 level English learners who can understand English easily... but still struggle to speak fluently, form long sentences, and express their thoughts with confidence in real conversations.

Maybe your biggest pain point is that your mind understands everything, but when it's time to speak... your words don't come out smoothly. You hesitate, you pause too often, and you feel like you can't speak the way you think.

And maybe you feel that your vocabulary is strong... yet you cannot turn those words into natural, flowing English sentences when talking to others.

If this sounds like you, then today's shadowing practice is exactly what you need. You're going to train your mouth, your rhythm, and your fluency through long, natural, high-level English sentences—the kind of sentences advanced speakers use every day.

I will speak each sentence twice, so you can listen first... and then shadow it with confidence.

Take a deep breath, relax your shoulders, and get ready to activate your spoken English like never before.

Let's begin.

★ SECTION 1 — Easy English Shadowing (Double Repetition | No “Repeat”)

I'm trying to speak English more confidently, even when I feel a little nervous.

I'm trying to speak English more confidently, even when I feel a little nervous.

I'm learning to explain my ideas more clearly so people can understand me better.

I'm learning to explain my ideas more clearly so people can understand me better.

I try to speak slowly and calmly because it helps my English sound more natural.

I try to speak slowly and calmly because it helps my English sound more natural.

I'm getting better at talking about simple things without stopping too much.

I'm getting better at talking about simple things without stopping too much.

I use new words whenever I can because they help me improve my speaking.

I use new words whenever I can because they help me improve my speaking.

I practice shadowing so I can copy the rhythm and sound more fluent.

I practice shadowing so I can copy the rhythm and sound more fluent.

I try to think in English so I can answer more quickly in conversations.

I try to think in English so I can answer more quickly in conversations.

Mistakes don't scare me anymore because they help me learn faster.

Mistakes don't scare me anymore because they help me learn faster.

I'm starting to enjoy speaking because it feels easier than before.

I'm starting to enjoy speaking because it feels easier than before.

I practice longer sentences so I can speak smoothly without many pauses.

I practice longer sentences so I can speak smoothly without many pauses.

I try to stay relaxed when I speak because confidence comes with practice.

I try to stay relaxed when I speak because confidence comes with practice.

I listen carefully in conversations so I can give better answers.

I listen carefully in conversations so I can give better answers.

I'm learning to describe my thoughts in a simple and clear way.

I'm learning to describe my thoughts in a simple and clear way.

I speak a little more every day because small steps make a big difference.

I speak a little more every day because small steps make a big difference.

I'm trying to use English in daily life so I can feel more comfortable with it.

I'm trying to use English in daily life so I can feel more comfortable with it.

I'm trying to speak more naturally by using simple words that are easy to remember.

I'm trying to speak more naturally by using simple words that are easy to remember.

I'm learning to make longer sentences without feeling scared or confused.

I'm learning to make longer sentences without feeling scared or confused.

I try to stay calm when I speak because a relaxed mind helps me talk better.

I try to stay calm when I speak because a relaxed mind helps me talk better.

I'm getting better at answering questions quickly when someone talks to me.

I'm getting better at answering questions quickly when someone talks to me.

I use English every day because even small practice helps me improve slowly.

I use English every day because even small practice helps me improve slowly.

I try to listen to clear English so I can copy the sound and rhythm.

I try to listen to clear English so I can copy the sound and rhythm.

I feel more confident when I speak because I know I'm learning step by step.

I feel more confident when I speak because I know I'm learning step by step.

I'm trying to describe things in more detail to make my sentences stronger.

I'm trying to describe things in more detail to make my sentences stronger.

I speak out loud when I practice because it helps my mouth learn the sounds.

I speak out loud when I practice because it helps my mouth learn the sounds.

I try not to worry about mistakes because they are a normal part of learning.

I try not to worry about mistakes because they are a normal part of learning.

I'm trying to talk for longer without stopping to build better fluency.

I'm trying to talk for longer without stopping to build better fluency.

I listen carefully to native speakers so I can understand how they speak naturally.

I listen carefully to native speakers so I can understand how they speak naturally.

I'm learning to connect my words smoothly so my sentences sound cleaner.

I'm learning to connect my words smoothly so my sentences sound cleaner.

I try to repeat new phrases many times so they stay in my memory.

I try to repeat new phrases many times so they stay in my memory.

I'm practicing speaking clearly so people don't have to ask me to repeat myself.

I'm practicing speaking clearly so people don't have to ask me to repeat myself.

I enjoy learning English because every day I feel a little more confident.

I enjoy learning English because every day I feel a little more confident.

I try to use English when I think, speak, or write so I can improve faster.

I try to use English when I think, speak, or write so I can improve faster.

I'm learning to stay patient because fluency takes time and practice.

I'm learning to stay patient because fluency takes time and practice.

I speak slowly and clearly so I can control my sentences better.

I speak slowly and clearly so I can control my sentences better.

I'm trying to use English in more situations so I can feel confident anywhere I go.

I'm trying to use English in more situations so I can feel confident anywhere I go.

I speak slowly at first, then faster, so I can build a natural speaking rhythm.

I speak slowly at first, then faster, so I can build a natural speaking rhythm.

I'm learning to answer with full sentences instead of short one-word replies.

I'm learning to answer with full sentences instead of short one-word replies.

I try to stay focused when I listen because good listening helps me speak better.

I try to stay focused when I listen because good listening helps me speak better.

I'm practicing talking about my day so I can speak without thinking too much.

I'm practicing talking about my day so I can speak without thinking too much.

I try to learn a few new phrases every week so my vocabulary keeps growing.

I try to learn a few new phrases every week so my vocabulary keeps growing.

I feel proud of myself when I speak English, even if it's not perfect yet.

I feel proud of myself when I speak English, even if it's not perfect yet.

I'm learning to start conversations without feeling shy or uncomfortable.

I'm learning to start conversations without feeling shy or uncomfortable.

I try to copy the tone of native speakers so my English sounds more natural.

I try to copy the tone of native speakers so my English sounds more natural.

I practice in front of a mirror so I can watch my mouth and improve my sound.

I practice in front of a mirror so I can watch my mouth and improve my sound.

I'm learning to stay patient because fluency doesn't happen in one day.

I'm learning to stay patient because fluency doesn't happen in one day.

I try to speak a little louder and clearer to build confidence in my voice.

I try to speak a little louder and clearer to build confidence in my voice.

I'm getting better at finding the right words when I want to explain something.

I'm getting better at finding the right words when I want to explain something.

I try to read simple English books so I can learn new words in context.

I try to read simple English books so I can learn new words in context.

I'm learning to think before I speak so my sentences come out smoother.

I'm learning to think before I speak so my sentences come out smoother.

I try to speak with people who know English so I can practice real conversations.

I try to speak with people who know English so I can practice real conversations.

I'm starting to feel more relaxed when speaking because it's becoming easier.

I'm starting to feel more relaxed when speaking because it's becoming easier.

I try to explain my opinions in English so I can practice longer sentences.

I try to explain my opinions in English so I can practice longer sentences.

I'm learning to connect ideas in one sentence to sound more fluent.

I'm learning to connect ideas in one sentence to sound more fluent.

I'm trying to practice English every day so I don't forget what I've learned.

I'm trying to practice English every day so I don't forget what I've learned.

I speak out loud because it helps me train my tongue and improve my pronunciation.

I speak out loud because it helps me train my tongue and improve my pronunciation.

I'm learning to use simple sentences first and then make them longer.

I'm learning to use simple sentences first and then make them longer.

I try to write a little in English so I can organize my ideas before speaking.

I try to write a little in English so I can organize my ideas before speaking.

I'm starting to feel more comfortable using English in real-life situations.

I'm starting to feel more comfortable using English in real-life situations.

I try to listen to English videos every day to understand different accents.

I try to listen to English videos every day to understand different accents.

I'm learning to use the right tone so my sentences sound friendly and natural.

I'm learning to use the right tone so my sentences sound friendly and natural.

I try to remember useful phrases that I can use in daily conversations.

I try to remember useful phrases that I can use in daily conversations.

I'm getting better at sharing my ideas without stopping too many times.

I'm getting better at sharing my ideas without stopping too many times.

I try to think before I speak so my words come out clearly and correctly.

I try to think before I speak so my words come out clearly and correctly.

I'm learning to ask simple questions to keep conversations going.

I'm learning to ask simple questions to keep conversations going.

I try to repeat sentences many times until they feel natural to say.

I try to repeat sentences many times until they feel natural to say.

I'm starting to understand English faster because I listen more than before.

I'm starting to understand English faster because I listen more than before.

I try to use English subtitles when watching videos so I can learn new expressions.

I try to use English subtitles when watching videos so I can learn new expressions.

I'm learning to stay patient with myself because speaking takes time to improve.

I'm learning to stay patient with myself because speaking takes time to improve.

I try to talk about my day in English to make speaking a daily habit.

I try to talk about my day in English to make speaking a daily habit.

I'm getting better at staying calm even when I make small mistakes.

I'm getting better at staying calm even when I make small mistakes.

I try to use English to describe things around me to train my mind to think in English.

I try to use English to describe things around me to train my mind to think in English.

I'm learning to enjoy the process of speaking instead of worrying about perfection.

I'm learning to enjoy the process of speaking instead of worrying about perfection.

I'm trying to use English when I think about my plans for the day.

I'm trying to use English when I think about my plans for the day.

I speak slowly at first so I can focus on making each word clear.

I speak slowly at first so I can focus on making each word clear.

I'm learning to use simple grammar correctly so my sentences make sense.

I'm learning to use simple grammar correctly so my sentences make sense.

I try to listen to native speakers to understand how they form sentences.

I try to listen to native speakers to understand how they form sentences.

I'm starting to answer questions with more confidence than before.

I'm starting to answer questions with more confidence than before.

I try to explain my thoughts in English even when the idea is difficult.

I try to explain my thoughts in English even when the idea is difficult.

I'm learning to speak without translating everything in my head.

I'm learning to speak without translating everything in my head.

I try to practice every day because small daily steps create big progress.

I try to practice every day because small daily steps create big progress.

I'm getting better at remembering new words when I use them often.

I'm getting better at remembering new words when I use them often.

I try to talk to myself in English to build my speaking confidence.
I try to talk to myself in English to build my speaking confidence.

I'm learning to pause naturally so my sentences sound smoother.
I'm learning to pause naturally so my sentences sound smoother.

I try to start conversations even when I feel a little shy.
I try to start conversations even when I feel a little shy.

I'm beginning to understand English conversations more easily.
I'm beginning to understand English conversations more easily.

I try to practice long sentences so speaking becomes less scary.
I try to practice long sentences so speaking becomes less scary.

I'm learning to use common phrases that help me sound more fluent.
I'm learning to use common phrases that help me sound more fluent.

I try not to rush because speaking slowly helps me control my words.
I try not to rush because speaking slowly helps me control my words.

I'm getting better at expressing my feelings and ideas in English.
I'm getting better at expressing my feelings and ideas in English.

I try to enjoy learning English instead of worrying about mistakes.
I try to enjoy learning English instead of worrying about mistakes.

I'm learning to stay confident even when I forget a word or two.
I'm learning to stay confident even when I forget a word or two.

I'm trying to speak English more often so it becomes a normal part of my day.

I'm trying to speak English more often so it becomes a normal part of my day.

I speak out loud when I practice because it helps my mouth learn the sounds.

I speak out loud when I practice because it helps my mouth learn the sounds.

I'm learning to stay relaxed while speaking so my words come out smoothly.

I'm learning to stay relaxed while speaking so my words come out smoothly.

I try to listen carefully to improve my understanding of natural English.

I try to listen carefully to improve my understanding of natural English.

I'm getting better at using simple phrases to communicate my ideas.

I'm getting better at using simple phrases to communicate my ideas.

I try to repeat sentences until they feel easy and natural to say.

I try to repeat sentences until they feel easy and natural to say.

I'm learning to speak with confidence even when I'm not sure of every word.

I'm learning to speak with confidence even when I'm not sure of every word.

I try to use English in small moments like walking, cooking, or relaxing.

I try to use English in small moments like walking, cooking, or relaxing.

I'm getting used to hearing my own voice in English without feeling shy.

I'm getting used to hearing my own voice in English without feeling shy.

I try to learn from my mistakes instead of feeling upset about them.

I try to learn from my mistakes instead of feeling upset about them.

I'm learning to hold longer conversations by asking simple questions.
I'm learning to hold longer conversations by asking simple questions.

I try to speak a little louder so I can hear my pronunciation clearly.
I try to speak a little louder so I can hear my pronunciation clearly.

I'm practicing English daily because routine helps me improve faster.
I'm practicing English daily because routine helps me improve faster.

I try to explain things in English even if my sentences are not perfect.
I try to explain things in English even if my sentences are not perfect.

I'm learning to listen to the tone and stress of each sentence.
I'm learning to listen to the tone and stress of each sentence.

I try to stay motivated by noticing small improvements in my speaking.
I try to stay motivated by noticing small improvements in my speaking.

I'm getting better at answering questions without overthinking.
I'm getting better at answering questions without overthinking.

I try to make English a fun activity so I enjoy the learning process.
I try to make English a fun activity so I enjoy the learning process.

I'm learning to talk about my ideas even when they feel hard to explain.
I'm learning to talk about my ideas even when they feel hard to explain.

I'm trying to speak more clearly so people can understand me without asking again.
I'm trying to speak more clearly so people can understand me without asking again.

I speak slowly when I practice so I can hear every sound in the sentence.
I speak slowly when I practice so I can hear every sound in the sentence.

I'm learning to describe my day in English to build strong speaking habits.

I'm learning to describe my day in English to build strong speaking habits.

I try to use simple words first and add more when I feel confident.

I try to use simple words first and add more when I feel confident.

I'm getting better at speaking for longer without stopping too often.

I'm getting better at speaking for longer without stopping too often.

I try to repeat phrases I hear so I can learn natural speaking patterns.

I try to repeat phrases I hear so I can learn natural speaking patterns.

I'm learning to relax and enjoy speaking instead of worrying about mistakes.

I'm learning to relax and enjoy speaking instead of worrying about mistakes.

I try to use English when I talk about my goals and plans for the future.

I try to use English when I talk about my goals and plans for the future.

I'm starting to understand more English when I listen carefully.

I'm starting to understand more English when I listen carefully.

I try to speak with good rhythm so my sentences sound smoother.

I try to speak with good rhythm so my sentences sound smoother.

I'm learning to think in English so words come to my mind more quickly.

I'm learning to think in English so words come to my mind more quickly.

I try to stay positive about speaking because confidence grows with practice.

I try to stay positive about speaking because confidence grows with practice.

I'm getting better at finding the right words to share my ideas.

I'm getting better at finding the right words to share my ideas.

I try to practice English even when I feel tired because small steps still help.

I try to practice English even when I feel tired because small steps still help.

I'm learning to connect my ideas so my sentences sound more complete.

I'm learning to connect my ideas so my sentences sound more complete.

I try to speak at a steady speed so my words are clear and easy to follow.

I try to speak at a steady speed so my words are clear and easy to follow.

I'm becoming more confident each time I speak in front of others.

I'm becoming more confident each time I speak in front of others.

I try to enjoy learning new words because they make speaking